What is the reason for the sale?

The owner is relocating and is looking for the right buyer to take over the established operation.

Why is this a good business?

This established logistics and trucking business offers a buyer the opportunity to take over an operational business with clients, established routes and a working fleet already in place. The business is currently trading at full capacity, with the vehicles and trailers recently serviced and in daily use. It also has important operational foundations in place, including tax compliance, VAT registration, insured assets, audited financials, 24/7 tracking and an established business bank account.

For a buyer looking to enter or expand in the transport and logistics sector, the combination of existing operations, established customers, multiple commercial vehicles and previous cross-border work provides a ready-made platform rather than starting a transport business from scratch.

Financials will be provided to qualified buyers.
