Fully describe the business's activities?

This company specializes in furniture removal, catering for both local and long-distance moves. The long-distance routes were established two years ago and service the whole country. Since then another inter-link was bought to accommodate the rapid growth the long-distance routes have shown.

Local moves are scheduled throughout the month and are typically fully booked for month-ends.

They also transport pallets of food, granite products and kitchen cabinets.

At present, the on-site team consists of three employees: an administrative staff member handling quotes and managing calls, a site manager overseeing day-to-day operations, and another administrative staff member providing operational support. Human resources and payroll management are handled remotely.

How does the business operate on a daily basis?

Requests for quotations are received via email and are generated from their website, Google ads, and Facebook ads. Many of their clients are referrals or returning customers. Quotations are dispatched promptly, typically on the same day they are received.
