About the Business:

Electronic Components and Appliance Spares Business

This is an exciting opportunity to own a well-known, conveniently located electronic components and appliance spares business.

The business is situated on a high-traffic main road in a well-known suburb of Cape Town.

This established electronic components and appliance spares business specialises in a wide range of electronic components and appliance spares, catering to both professional technicians and DIY customers.

With a strong reputation built over many years, this store is a trusted go-to for quality parts and expert advice.

This business for sale boasts secure on-site parking for customers, ensuring easy access and a steady flow of walk-in traffic. Its central location and high visibility make it a standout in the area, with excellent potential for continued growth.

Operating with low overheads and a lean, efficient team of just three experienced staff members, this is a turnkey operation offering a smooth transition for any buyer.

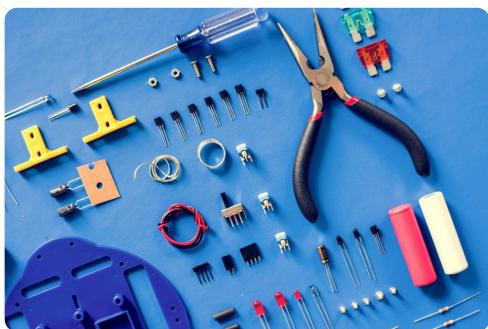

All systems and stock are in place, allowing you to step in and start earning from day one.

Whether you're an investor seeking a solid venture or a hands-on operator in the electronics or appliance repair industry, this business presents an exceptional opportunity.

The owner has already relocated to another town and is now eager to sell the business to cover his inventory costs.

The asking price includes stock of ± R 450,000 and fixed assets of R 100,000.
